

Digiliti Money Partners with Galileo Processing to Deliver New Range of Mobile Features for Galileo's Prepaid Card Provider Network

New Offering Integrates Digiliti Money's Award-winning Select Mobile™ Money Platform with Galileo's Industry-leading Payment Processing Capabilities

MINNEAPOLIS, MN – Digiliti, a leading mobile FinTech provider of cloud-based remote deposit capture (RDC) and mobile prepaid solutions, has partnered with Galileo Processing to offer Galileo's global network of prepaid, debit and credit card program managers a broad set of mobile features and enhancements.

The solution integrates Digiliti Money's award-winning Select Mobile Money SaaS platform with Galileo's industry-leading processing capabilities. It allows program managers using Galileo's processing services to offer their partners and end users a feature-rich companion app for iOS or Android mobile devices.

The mobile app can present a variety of services that helps card users personalize their mobile experience, better manage their prepaid cards and personal funds, including account management, transaction history, international remittance, bill pay, card-to-card transfer, check-to-card, and other convenient options. The app also features location-based technology that can pinpoint nearby reload locations and ATMs, as well as supports coupon loyalty programs.

Powerful back-end analytics enable card program managers to segment users based on behavior and send relevant marketing notifications in the app that keep them engaged. As a unique 'white label' offering, Select Mobile Money allows program managers to quickly and easily deploy a variety of branded cards directly to the end user or through their independent distributors.

"Major FinTech players like Galileo are increasingly turning to partner with Digiliti Money because the word is spreading that we have the best white-label platform for the prepaid market," said Larry Blaney, Digiliti Money's EVP of Sales. "We now have several Galileo programs that have deployed our multi-tenant white-label platform, which allows the program manager to quickly create custom mobile applications for their programs."

According to Scott Johnson, SVP of Business Development at Galileo: "We've partnered with Digiliti Money because we have experienced firsthand the unique functionality and capabilities of Select Mobile Money, and how it can be tremendously beneficial to our prepaid program managers. By integrating Digiliti Money technology into our platform, we are able to further leverage our payment expertise and enhance our leadership position in the payment solutions industry.”
