

Accuity Launches Online Resource Guide Showcasing Thousands of Products and Services

SKOKIE, IL – July 29, 2008 – Accuity, the leading provider of payment routing data, AML screening software and services, today launched Marketplace[1], an online resource guide that provides an effective and affordable showcase for companies to connect with financial services buyers and decision-makers who are searching for product or service solutions.

Marketplace, located at <http://marketplace.AccuitySolutions.com> [2], provides an opportunity for companies to post their contact information, with hyperlinks to their Web site and e-mail address, as well as their logo and 100-word company description about their products and services in more than 150 categories, addressing a broad range of business needs. In addition, visitors can instantly solicit information from vendors that can be used for Requests For Proposals (RFP) to streamline the selection process and requests for more information.

“We developed Marketplace to leverage our market position and name recognition to help connect those seeking financial industry-related products and services and the vendors providing such solutions,” said Hugh Jones, President of Accuity. “We feel Marketplace presents a great opportunity for advancement for all parties involved. It is an online win-win situation.”

Marketplace can be accessed from several of Accuity’s Web sites including www.AccuitySolutions.com[3], www.IBANPaymentResource.com[4] and www.TGBR.com[5] and is part of Accuity’s Marketing Services solutions that also include advertising opportunities, lead development and a private label program.
