

Panini Expands Technical Services to Support Growth

Craig Fahrenkrug Joins Company in Software Engineering

DAYTON, Ohio--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Rigorous demand for Panini's market-leading My Vision X™ check scanning platform has prompted the company to expand their technical services organization to support their tremendous growth. Panini has more than doubled the size of their North American technical services department over the past 12 months and most recently adds Craig Fahrenkrug to provide experience and skills in areas including project design, development, testing, integration and support.

Craig joins Panini from Summit Innovations, a distributed capture software company, where he was an original founder and key contributor to the technical and product development functions. "One of the most knowledgeable technicians in our industry, Craig has experience with software and hardware components from a host of vendors," states Joe Sanders, VP Technical Services, Panini North America. "He has worked with Panini and has leveraged our products in a wide range of solution environments. We are very excited to welcome him to our team."

"Panini North America is adding significant depth to our software integration expertise," adds Doug Roberts, President, Panini North America. "Craig's capabilities in this critical area will greatly benefit our partners and customers."

Panini is a global leader in providing payment technology innovation. The company's leadership is demonstrated by their dominant market share position and industry recognition. Panini's scalable check capture platform addresses the complete range of distributed capture applications including remote deposit capture and branch item capture.
